

GIFT BOOK SALE FACILITY OPENS IN CENTRAL

The East Baton Rouge Parish Library and the Patrons of the Public Library, the library's friends organization, are pleased to announce the grand opening of a permanent "gift book sale store" in the city of Central.

In 1971, L.W. Eaton constructed a building adjacent to his shopping center at the corner of Hooper and Sullivan roads for the purpose of leasing it to the city as a branch library. The building, located at 13505 Hooper Road, was opened as the Central Branch Library on April 10, 1972. Ten years later, the library purchased the 2,604 square-foot building.

Since the opening of the new Central Branch Library on Joor Road in June 2002, the old Hooper Road facility has been used to store books for branches under construction. In the past seven months, the library has opened three new branches, leaving the building available to serve a new purpose as the official gift book sale facility.

Generous patrons drop off gift donations daily. Many are duplicate items that the library does not require in its collection, therefore, these items are shared with patrons in a book sale.

The East Baton Rouge Parish Library began their well-attended gift book sales at the Main Library in August 2000.

Former Branch Services Librarian Sylvia Melancon developed the first East Baton Rouge Parish Library book sale and kept a "journal" documenting the pro and cons of each sale. Entries included weather conditions, attendance, popular sale items, space, and other points of interest. Weather temperature, location, and community events were key factors in sale attendance.

All proceeds of the book sales go to the Patrons of the Public Library, which helps to fund programming throughout the year, such as the Author-Illustrator program, the Summer Reading Club, and other programs designed for the community.

"It is a nice feature to have the book sales in the same location each time because people will know where each sale will be."

Gift Book Sale Facility Opens in Central

In prior book sales, library parking lots and meeting rooms were filled with books of all kind—fiction, cookbooks, textbooks, history, travel, art, crafts, and many more to suit everyone's interests. Videos, audiocassettes, CDs, LPs, and magazines were also available for purchase at a low cost. Buyers from all over the area come to shop for themselves, while many more shop for local and overseas institutions and organizations. Volunteers sort, sell, and help eager buyers carry purchases to their cars by the armload.

Initially, book sales were scheduled quarterly and required multiple days of preparation. For each book sale, staff members boxed, hauled, and set up items at different branches. Tables and other furniture were used to display sale items, leaving branches without this necessary equipment for programs and events.

Despite wonderfully productive sales, these rotating quarterly book sales have overwhelmed the ability of staff and loyal volunteers to manage them. Sales have been so successful that the library needs a permanent location.

With this new book sale facility, which will only be open on sale dates, the East Baton Rouge Parish Library will now be able to hold book sales throughout the year on the last Saturday of each month. Fixed shelves will allow books and materials to be separated into broad categories for effortless browsing, like that of a bookstore. Another benefit of the new book sale facility will be its convenient location. The Patrons of the Public Library will also sell book bags, bookmarks, and other promotional items.

"It is a nice feature to have the book sales in the same location each time because people will know where each sale will be," said librarian Mechelle Whitney.

Volunteers are hard at work helping Collection Development Librarian Carol Mareks get everything ready for the inaugural sale on Saturday, March 25, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Since this is a new service of the East Baton Rouge Parish Library, the "gift book sale store" will need a catchy name. The library is holding a contest open to the public for suggestions of names for the facility. Voting for the final name will be held at the first gift book sale in March.

Dybbuks, Poetry, and Hollywood

with Andrei Codrescu

Romanian-born American poet and novelist Andrei Codrescu, will present a discussion on the Jewish imagination, Dybbuks, Poetry, and Hollywood, at the Bluebonnet Regional Branch Library on Sunday, March 19, at 3:00 p.m. Codrescu will discuss two supernatural figures of the Jewish imagination: The Golem (or Frankenstein), and Dracula.

The Yiddish-speaking Jews of Europe had a great folklore that did not perish in the Holocaust. Some of it came to America in the literature of the Singer brothers, while some of it went directly to Hollywood and became an enduring part of the American imagination.

Andrei Codrescu is a National Public Radio commentator and has been recognized worldwide for his expressive and innovative works of literature. He is the MacCurdy Distinguished Professor of English and comparative literature at Louisiana State University, where he edits the literary magazine Exquisite Corpse: A Journal of Letters and Life. He also wrote and starred in the Peabody Award-winning documentary film, Road Scholar.

This program is presented in conjunction with the reading and discussion series Demons, Golems, and Dybbuks: Monsters of the Jewish Imagination, made possible through a grant from Nextbook and the American Library Association.

For more information, call (225) 231-3746.

Let's Talk About It: Jewish Literature Series

The series will be facilitated by local scholar Dr. Dan Novak, who works with the Jewish Studies Program of the LSU Department of English.

Part of the Let's Talk About It: Jewish Literature series, the programs will feature lively discussions of books with themes of identity and imagination, as related to spirits and bodies—monstrous, ailing, or alluring. All literary selections are appealing and readable and will offer opportunities for insight into Jewish history and beliefs. The readings will serve as a springboard for discussion of comparative religious experience and thought.

Books to be discussed include

Metamorphosis by Franz Kafka	Thursday, March 2
The Puttermesser Papers by Cynthia Ozick	Thursday, March 16
Angels in America by Tony Kushner	Thursday, March 30

Metamorphosis

Choreography of Change

An original dance production performed by dancers Carrie Cliburn and Christine Negulescu will be presented at the Bluebonnet Regional Branch Library on Saturday, March 11, at 3:00 p.m.

Designed by Yvonne Boudreaux, Metamorphosis challenges the configuration of architecture and dance in its most simplistic form and allows the human body to be interwoven between the two worlds. Through choreography of motion and space, the dancers will create a chemistry of abstract images that will challenge the audience's perception of movement and give life to the structure by combining architecture, movement, and sculpture.

Yvonne Boudreaux is currently pursuing a master's of fine arts degree in set design at the University of Texas in Austin.

For more information on this program, call (225) 231-3745.

Community and Library Work Together

In a unique blending of governmental facilities, community input and library expertise, the Career Center opened its doors last year inside the River Center Branch Library. As a pilot project of the East Baton Rouge Parish Library and the Baton Rouge Area Foundation, an organization that supports non-profits with public and corporate donations, the Career Center's goal is to help create a self-reliant and career-resilient employee pool, thus strengthening the area's business community. Subsequent local events and an influx of hurricane evacuees have dramatically increased the metropolitan population, making the Career Center an even timelier project.

The Career Center is not an employment agency or job training facility. It is a free service which assists skilled and/or educated clients in career transition. Similar to the way a library functions, Career Center professional staff help clients become their own career managers.

A budgeted grant from the Foundation and the donation of office space, utilities and supplies, and print and non-print resources from the Library system combined to bring about the Career Center, which has long been a goal of volunteer Director and certified career coach, Ursula B. Carmena.

Carmena's 20 years of experience in the career development field includes establishing and building up a professional service for aptitude evaluation and career coaching. She closed her business to take on the Career Center.

The opening of the Center was preceded by months of planning and consultation with Baton Rouge business and Library system leaders.

Discussing her vision for this new free service, Carmena said, "In planning the Career Center, I considered the special nature of a library, which seemed like a setting particularly suited to our goal. Indeed, this has proved to be the case. Our clients receive guidance in using print and electronic resources, but we don't do the research for them. If a one-on-one conference is needed, the client makes an appointment for career coaching."

Ursula Bogan Carmena,
Career Center Director

Free Resources Offered at the Career Center

- A centralized library of current circulating books, periodicals, videos, DVDs and CDs on self-assessment, job seeking, specific careers, business information, etc.
- In-house and remote access to business information and career databases
- Printed self-assessment tests on aptitudes, values, interests, etc.
- Computers, printer and copier for client use
- Periodic workshops on site and at branches throughout the library system on topics of interest to clients in career transition, e.g. interview skills, résumé writing, networking and job search, plus periodic information panels by local business people
- Reference lists and information about employment services, useful web sites and specialized testing and training
- Private consultation by appointment with a professional career coach
- Trained professional assistance in using the resources

Community response to this new resource in the business community and the workforce has been enthusiastic. Last year, over 1,300 people used Career Center resources and received information, with nearly 200 clients scheduling individual coaching sessions.

The Center has just received a grant from the Junior League of Baton Rouge to expand its electronic collection to meet the demands of clients. Current efforts are directed at training a Director and turning the Center and its collection over to the East Baton Rouge Parish Library system as part of its regular client services.

AUTHOR SPOTLIGHT

Cane River by Lalita Tademy

This real-life tale of four generations of strong-willed African-American women spans a hundred years and is based on the author's own family. The story begins in 1834 with Elizabeth and her daughter Suzette, slaves on a Creole plantation in the Cane River area of Louisiana. Suzette's daughter Philomene becomes the mistress of wealthy landowner Narcisse Fredieu, who gives Philomene her own land when slavery ends. Philomene's light-skinned daughter Emily continues the fight to preserve her family from racist laws and vicious "night riders."

Cane River includes family photographs and documents which add authenticity to the story. Written as fiction, but deeply rooted in years of research, historical fact, and family lore, Cane River covers 137 years of Tademy's family's history.

To find out more about the author, visit her website at <http://www.lalitatademy.com/>. The site provides a reading group guide for book clubs.

Family mediation is a cooperative process in which parties work together with a neutral mediator to reach agreements on such issues as parenting arrangements, financial support, property settlement, business arrangements, and other family issues. Once an agreement is reached, it may then be submitted to each party's attorney for review and legal implementation.
