Corn Fields and Shrimp Boats: The Effects of Agriculture on Gulf Coast Waters

As we explore our Oceans of Possibilities through Summer Reading, let’s find ways to keep our oceans safe and swimming with life for future generations. Come to the Main Library at Goodwood on Saturday, July 9 at 10 a.m. to learn about the “Dead Zone” in the Gulf of Mexico and the work being done to address it from presenter Jackson Martinez, a Science Policy Fellow at The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine.

How are farmers in the Midwest connected to fishers in the Gulf of Mexico? There are no corn fields off the coast of Louisiana and commercial shrimping doesn’t exactly work in Wisconsin, so the connection isn’t apparent. The answer is the Mississippi River. Draining almost half of the contiguous United States land area, the Mississippi provides many with drinking water, recreational activities, and supports major industry and commerce. However, for those on the Gulf coast, the Mississippi River brings nutrients and fertilizers from upstream agriculture that cause low-oxygen waters unsuitable for marine life. This presentation will highlight the effects of low-oxygen, or hypoxic, waters in the Gulf and explore potential solutions that Gulf and Midwestern states can work toward together to better manage nutrients, improve water quality, and reduce Gulf hypoxia.

Casas for CASA Playhouse Fundraiser

Capital Area Court Appointed Special Advocates Association announces the 28th annual Casas for CASA playhouse fundraiser presented by title sponsor Blue Cross Blue Shield of Louisiana. Casas for CASA generates awareness and funding to support CASA’s advocacy efforts on behalf of abused children. Platinum sponsors include East Baton Rouge Parish Library, Faulk & Meek General Contractors, L.L.C., Franciscan Missionaries of Our Lady, Lamar Advertising, and Republic Finance.

The fundraiser kicked off with the 2022 “Magnolia Mansion” CASA playhouse on display from June 1 until July 31 at the Main Library at Goodwood. Raffle tickets are $5 each and will be available online at casabr.org. For convenience, you can use the QR code provided. The playhouse was designed by Lilliput Play Homes and assembled by local builders Faulk and Meek General Contractors.

The fundraiser wraps up Sunday, July 31 from 5-8 p.m. with CASA Fiesta at the Renaissance Hotel. The event will feature Mexican cuisine by Superior Grill, a silent auction, music and a wine pull. Tickets are $50 each and will be available online at casabr.org or at the door. Concluding the evening will be the raffle ticket pull for the playhouse at 5 p.m. Faulk & Meek General Contractors will deliver the playhouse to the winner within 30 miles of Baton Rouge. Winner need not be present to win. Dress is summer casual.

All proceeds benefit Capital Area CASA Association, a nonprofit organization that recruits, trains, and supervises volunteers who advocate for abused and neglected children in need of safe, permanent homes. The fundraiser enables Capital Area CASA to continue serving every child in East Baton Rouge Parish who needs a voice.

Due to the pandemic, there is a waitlist of children who need an advocate as they navigate through the court system. CASA is presently in need of adults who are willing to fill that role. If you are interested in learning more, visit www.casabr.org/volunteer. You can register for a 30-minute ZOOM session that gives information about being that special person in a child’s life.

LSU Museum of Art Presents
Blurring Boundaries

The LSU Museum of Art is pleased to present Blurring Boundaries: The Women of American Abstract Artists, 1936 – Present, on view starting July 14. From the outset—due as much to their divergent status as abstract artists as to their gender—women of American Abstract Artists (AAA) were already working on the periphery of the art world. In contrast to the other artist collectives of the period, where equal footing for women was unusual, AAA provided a place of refuge for female artists. Through fifty-four works, Blurring Boundaries explores the artists’ astounding range of styles, including their individual approaches to the guiding principles of abstraction: color, space, light, material, and process. More than eighty years after its founding, AAA continues to nurture and support a vibrant community of artists with diverse identities and wide-ranging approaches to abstraction. In celebration of this tradition, Blurring Boundaries traces the extraordinary contributions of the female artists within AAA, from the founders to today’s practicing members. Included are works by historic members Perle Fine, Esphyr Slobodkina, Irene Rice Pereira, Alice Trumbull Mason, and Gertrude Greene, as well as current members such as Ce Roser, Irene Rousseau, Judith Murray, Alice Adams, Merrill Wagner, Katinka Mann, and Susan Bonfils (of Baton Rouge, Louisiana). For more information, visit www.lsumoa.org.

Glenn Miller Orchestra at the River Center

The world-famous Glenn Miller Orchestra brings timeless classics like “In the Mood,” “Moonlight Serenade,” “Chattanooga Choo Choo,” “Pennsylvania 6-5000,” “String of Pearls,” and “Tuxedo Junction” back to the stage. Even 80 years after founding his famous orchestra, Glenn Miller’s music is alive and well at the Raising Canes River Center on Sunday, July 17 at 3 p.m. Visit raisingcanesrivercenter.com/events for more information and to purchase tickets.
The Boggs Family Legacy at the Old State Capitol

For more than forty years, a member of the Boggs family represented Louisiana’s Second Congressional District – and most of New Orleans— in the House of Representatives. In addition to working for their constituents in Louisiana, Hale and Lindy Boggs were strong supporters of the national Democratic Party and its platform at a time when many Southern Democrats sought to distance themselves from the national party. Their children also joined in the “family business” of politics in a variety of ways—as a mayor, a lobbyist, and a journalist. The Boggs Family Legacy exhibit is on display at the Old State Capitol through December 16. For more information, visit www.louisianastatecapitol.org.

LASM’s Iridescence Exhibition

It’s your last chance to view the Louisiana Arts & Science Museum’s Iridescence which ends on Sunday, July 31. Visitors will uncover the scientific principles that explain the rainbow-like, color-shifting phenomenon of iridescence. There is more to this captivating occurrence than meets the eye! Partnering with Dr. Nathan Lord, Assistant Professor in the Dept. of Entomology and Director of the Louisiana State Arthropod Museum, LASM brings you works by numerous artists, including Louisiana-native Jennifer Robinson, as well as partners from Louisiana State University. Learn more at exploreiridescence.com and www.lasm.org/exhibitions/art-exhibitions/iridescence.
Neighborhood Arts Project

LSU Museum of Art’s (LSU MOA) Neighborhood Arts Project, which provides free art activities in East Baton Rouge Parish under pop-up tents at sites, has returned this summer. At sites listed in the summer schedule below, LSU MOA will set up tents for families and children to stop by and create art. Visiting artists including Jenelle Esparza from LSU MOA’s current exhibition State of the Art: Record (on loan from Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art) will also be at sites on certain dates to share their creative process and provide the opportunity to learn from and to create with professional artists. By leading community pop-ups, the LSU Museum of Art hopes to provide children and parents with arts educational resources, connect families to the museum, and to encourage art learning, creativity, and engagement this summer through the Neighborhood Arts Project. “Reading is Elementary” Winners!

Congratulations to these lucky readers! They all participate in the Library’s “Reading is Elementary” program, and it really paid off! Each of them took home a $100 Wal-Mart gift card as part of the program’s annual prize drawing. This literacy incentive-based program is for kindergarteners – 5th graders. Children can sign up at any of the Library’s 14 locations and start logging the books they read. For every five books read, they will receive a fun patch. Once they have reached 50 books, they will instead receive an entry into the annual drawing for every 5 books read. Wonderful stories and great prizes – it’s a win-win! There is even a special program for babies – preschoolers called “1,000 Books Before Kindergarten.” Sign up and start reading today!
